

BUTTE NEWS.

IN THE DISTRICT COURT

Jurors, Witnesses and Lawyers
Get Ahead of Time.

THEY WILL DEMAND FEES

Veno Brought Back After His Last Futile Attempt for His Liberty.
Strained Relations Between a Tenant and His Landlord.

Through a mistake made by the court last Friday in announcing the time to which the Shafer murder case was continued, 46 special jurors, as well as the 11 already in the box and all the witnesses and lawyers reported yesterday morning, but Judge Clancy said the case had been continued until Tuesday morning, and all were therefore excused and ordered to report again this morning and the mistake will give rise to some contention about the payment of fees for yesterday amounting to over $100. The jurors and witnesses handed in their time and will demand their fees for the day, claiming they had been ordered to appear. The clerk announced that he would not pay the fees because the judge claims the case had been continued until today.

Sheriff Regan brought D. N. Dickenson back from Anaconda yesterday afternoon and put him back in jail. Judge Brantly having denied the third writ of habeas corpus. The case for the state had been submitted on a written statement of the facts and the court records in the case, showing the first information against Veno had been quashed and that Judge Clancy had instructed the county attorney to file a new information pending the third writ. It is not likely that "Veno's" attorney will try any more habeas corpus proceedings.

F. G. Kunz called upon the county attorney yesterday and made a statement of the strained relations existing between himself and his landlord, a man named Benham. Kunz lives at 103 South Arizona street, and is about five days back in his rent. Yesterday, according to Kunz's story, Benham called at the house and told Mrs. Kunz to go after her husband and get the rent at once. Kunz was at work, and could not accompany his wife home, and when she returned alone she found her children out in the cold and a new lock on the door which she could not open. She reported to her husband and he consulted a lawyer, who advised him to break the door in. Kunz then called on the county attorney to give him notice that he meant to follow the advice. Deputy County Attorney Stevens suggested that he first see Benham and talk matters over with him and kick the door in afterwards if the landlord refused to open it.

A complaint was made to the county attorney yesterday that a man named Charles Sweet living in the Parrot addition had cruelly beaten his wife several days ago from the effects of which she was still suffering. Justice Burns court at South Butte against Sweet, the complaint being sworn to by Constable Boyce. The officer said Sweet had kicked, choked and beaten his wife, and also threatened to kill her child, and that it was an aggravated case of wife beating. Mrs. Sweet, it is claimed, has been supporting the family by dressmaking.

A P. O. D. of A. Hall.
A very pleasant event last night was the ball given at Renshaw hall by the P. O. D. of A. in honor of the eighth anniversary of Montana's admission to the union. The hall was well filled with merry dancers and all had a pleasant time.

YELLOW FEVER.
The Situation in New Orleans Continues Favorable.

New Orleans, Nov. 8.—The yellow fever situation continues favorable. There has been no marked change since yesterday and yellow jack has lost his terrors for the people who are greatly elated over the gratifying turn of affairs. The record today was 15 new cases and five deaths.

Enter in California.
Colon, California, via Galveston, Nov. 8. Owing to the continued prevalence of yellow fever at Kingston, Jamaica, the Colombian government is enforcing a quarantine against all passengers by the Royal Steamship company's vessels for the Isthmus of Panama and Pacific ports. The mails also are detained for fumigation.

Only Two Deaths.
Mobile, Ala., Nov. 8.—There were but four new cases of yellow fever and two deaths today.

AN IMPORTANT DECISION.
Transfers Cannot Be Made Under the Civil Service Law.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—A special to the Times-Herald from Washington, D. C., says: Judge John J. Jackson handed down a decision today which holds that a transfer cannot, without trial, be made under the civil service law, because it is equivalent to removal. Judge Jackson insists that the appointment of a man to a federal position under the civil service law gives him a right in equity to the place, which he is not forced to surrender, save for cause.

Judge Jackson remarks in his document that the leaving of discretionary powers in the hands of the department makes the civil service a dead letter. He remarks that there is no doubt the civil service law is entirely unconstitutional, that congress has never delegated to the president and the commission legislative power, and declares that the internal revenue service has been placed under the merit code, and he also holds that any attempt to change the position and rank of officers in civil service departments is a violation of the law.

His final finding is that the court of equity has a right to sit in such cases and has the jurisdiction to restrain the appointing power from removing the officers from their positions, if such removals are shown to be in violation of the civil service act. And he therefore ordered that the men who had been shifted from a good salaried place to a smaller salaried place, should be reinstated. The government authorities have declared that the ruling of Judge Jackson will cause great confusion, as his findings are far from what had been expected. This case here, which resulted in this opinion, was brought to reinstate a United States storekeeper of gauger in the revenue service. A day storekeeper at the Hannibal distillery was transferred to a position of additional storekeeper. The storekeeper who, for three months, had been on duty as additional storekeeper, was assigned as day storekeeper. The withdrawal gauger was laid off and a reinstated gauger assigned to duty.

By injunction the collector and all others were enjoined from interfering with the officers who had been on duty.

INDIAN AFFAIRS.

The Government Has $1,000,000 Invested in School Plants.

Washington, Nov. 8.—The annual report of Commissioner of Indian Affairs W. A. Jones, made public today, shows that there was a contract schools in operation last year. For the current fiscal year it has been deemed best to reduce the government compensation to the various tribes to a small amount rather than cut off any of the schools in the Crow Creek country. The government has been $2,000,000 and $4,000,000 invested in Indian school plants. The loss from fire for the year has averaged $250,000 or more annually, and fire protection is now being introduced in the schools generally. The total number of allotments to non-reservation Indians approved was 1,545; on reservations: Yakimas, in Washington, 294; Mission Indians on the Temecula reservation, California, 85; Chippewas, in Minnesota, 219.

A recommendation is made for the ratification by congress of the treaty negotiated Oct. 17, 1891, with the Puyubles on the Pyramid lake reservation in Nevada for the surrender of the southern portion of the reservation, which includes the town of Wadsworth. The citizens of Wadsworth are without title and are regarded by the government as intruders on the Indian lands. The Indians feel aggrieved on account of the trespass and the matter has been for years in an unsettled condition.

It is recommended that congress make an appropriation to cover the expenses of the proposed removal of the Saxe and Fox agency in Oklahoma from its present site in Lincoln county to near Shawnee, and that the Klamath Indians in Oregon be compensated on account of lands erroneously excluded from their reservation.

ANARCHISTS CELEBRATE.

Most Talk of the "Communist of Capitalism" and of Bombs.

New York, Nov. 8.—The anarchists of this city tonight celebrated in a public meeting in Chardon hall, the tenth anniversary of the conviction of their comrades in Chicago. There were about 200 in the audience.

Johann Most presided and read his speech from manuscript. Most of the "canon of capitalism," which he said "concentrated itself that the social question had been quelled and that peace and order prevailed. He wanted to tell the political bandits that the anarchists were not gathered to mourn or to shed tears, but to sing a song of triumph, for the future was not far off. He called the government a cowboy government, with apologies to the cowboys, and tickled his hearers by saying one of his bombs was fired in the Haymarket, but it did excellent execution.

STANDARD OIL COMPANY.

Cited to Appear in Court in Contempt Proceedings.

Columbus, Ohio, Nov. 8.—Contempt proceedings were brought in the supreme court this afternoon by Attorney General McKim against the Standard Oil company. It is claimed the company has not abided by a supreme court decision obtained by Attorney General Johnson in March, 1892. The supreme court then held that the company was operating as a trust in conflict with the laws of the state and that the trust must be dissolved. In the "information" filed by the attorney general today, it is charged that the trust has been dissolved, but that under the pretense of winding up its affairs the trust has arranged to continue indefinitely. To-morrow the supreme court will fix the day on which the Standard Oil company shall be cited to appear in court to answer the charge.

FORT CUSTER ABANDONED.

The War Department Accepts General Wade's Recommendation.

Washington, Nov. 8.—The war department, acting on the recommendation of General Wade, commanding the department of Dakota, has ordered the abandonment of Fort Custer, Montana. General Wade also recommends the abandonment of Fort Assiniboine, Montana, and the department thinks it impracticable at this time of year. One reason for abandoning Fort Custer is that its sanitary condition and water supply is not what it should be. Troops A, B, C and K, Tenth cavalry, and companies A and B, Twenty-fifth infantry, are now stationed at Fort Custer. It is expected that some of these troops will be sent to the new military post at Fort Harrison, near Helena.

QUICK ACTION URGED.

The President Asked to Send Aid to the Impoverished Here.

San Francisco, Nov. 8.—The chamber of commerce today sent the following message to President McKinley: "In the name of humanity and patriotism, the chamber of commerce of San Francisco respectfully urges upon you the prompt dispatch of the revenue cutter Bear to the Arctic under command of Captain Henry, with discretionary powers, fully equipped and provisioned, to rescue over 200 American seamen imprisoned by ice near Point Barrow, and with authority to use, if necessary, the remainder at the government station to facilitate travel."

PARTIALLY DESTROYED.

Five-Story Building in Chicago Fired By Electric Wires.

Chicago, Nov. 8.—The five-story brick building on Harrison street and Washington avenue, was partially destroyed by fire this evening. The loss on the building and contents is estimated at $150,000, fully insured. Poorly insulated electric wires are supposed to have caused the blaze.

The block is occupied by a number of carriage manufacturing concerns. Furniture and household goods in the store, occupying the fourth floor, suffered the heaviest loss, about $50,000.

TAKE A LIVELY INTEREST

News From Alaska Watched by People in Livingston.

A LETTER FROM JUNEAU

Quite a Number of Montana People in the Place—Receives and Switzer Witnesses Go to Cheyenne—Montana Exploring Co.

Special Dispatch to the Standard.

Livingston, Nov. 7.—There is a lively interest in this city in news from Alaska, especially in any word that comes back from people who have gone there from his part of the country. At least a dozen men from this immediate vicinity have gone to seek their fortunes in that land of the far north and a good many others are preparing to join in the stampede. J. H. Cornwall was one of the most recent departures and from him an interesting letter has just been received by George W. Johnson, the letter being sent to Juneau, where the writer will spend the winter. Extracts from Mr. Cornwall's letter are given below:

"There are hundreds of idle men at Juneau, but still it is a very busy place, receiving and shipping goods, and is considered a better outfitting point for the miners than the cities on Puget sound. The Alaska fever has landed many broken men in Juneau, a greater number than can find employment—and I would not advise anybody to come here who has not the means to support himself. But I really think it is the best thing ever said for one to make money fast who has a little money to work on."

"There are several Montana people in Juneau; quite a number from Butte and vicinity. You would be surprised to see all the people coming in on the steamers from Seattle, Tacoma, Port Townsend, Victoria and Vancouver. Every boat carries parties outfitting for the Yukon. They go into camp at Dyea and Skagway, where they await favorable weather to get over the passes. A tramway is being built at Dyea, which is expected to be finished by the first of February. There is going to be a big rush in the spring. Anyone intending to go to Dawson should come as early as the middle of February."

"There are quite a number of returned Yukoners already here and others following every day. They all tell the same story—plenty of gold, but no food. There are about 7,000 people there, with food for about 2,000 only. There is getting out as fast as they can. There is a fortune for anyone who gets in early with a stock of provisions."

"Copper river has quite a boom and several large parties have left for there. As now as I can find out, they will have to go into camp before they reach their destination and wait for spring. 'All the gambling houses in Juneau have been closed since the strike. I shall, but it is expected they will be open again before long."

"It rains here continually and both men and women wear rubber coats and boots. Game is quite plenty and fine and there is no end of excellent fish in the market. I caught a fine halibut weighing 22½ pounds a day or two ago. 'Every woman has a belief in the talisman and has gone to Skagway, where I expect to go soon."

Witnesses Go to Cheyenne.

The witnesses in the prosecution of Reebe and Switzer for holding up the stages in the National park last summer have been subpoenaed to appear before the United States grand jury at Cheyenne, which meets on the 8th inst., and the most of them came down from the park last night and departed this morning for Cheyenne. The indicted United States Commissioner J. W. McDaniel, Lieutenant Elmer Lindsey, W. W. Foster, James G. Morrison, Ed Howell and A. K. Crawford.

To Sail Up the Yukon.

The Montana Exploring company, organized by gentlemen of this city, is going to Alaska, have closed negotiations through their agent, Capt. C. R. Sheldon, for the purchase of a 75-ton steamer to transfer the company and their supplies to the Yukon. E. F. Fowler, president of the company, will leave on the 15th for Portland to inspect the vessel and close the deal if everything appears satisfactory. The company expect to sail on the 25th of March.

Rebuilt With Brick.

A brick business block is supplanting the Garnier building on Second street, which was left in ruins by the recent fire. The front has been solidly rebuilt with brick and the side and rear walls are being veneered with brick. W. R. Kermode is the contractor.

That Flour Mill.

Farmers of Park county are wondering when Livingston is going to build their flour mill. They are waiting for this section who has a grip to grind has to go to Big Timber, a trip occupying three to four days' time. Already over two carloads of flour ground at Big Timber have been freighted by parties living around Cascade and Paradise valleys.

Shot by the Mistress.

Marshallfield, Ore., Nov. 8.—J. Tucker, a colored gambler, better known as "Doc," was shot and fatally wounded this afternoon by his mistress, Sallie Thompson, also colored. Tucker attempted to seduce the woman, when she shot him in the abdomen. The Thompson woman came here from Franklin, Wash., where it is said she has a husband.

Union Pacific Payments.

New York, Nov. 8.—It is the understanding of the Union Pacific reorganization committee that the purchase money will be paid as follows: Nov. 25, 15 per cent of the sinking fund; Dec. 1, 10 per cent; already paid, $2,000,000, the balance, to be paid in four equal installments of about $5,000,000 each at intervals of 10 days, beginning Dec. 6.

It Was Necessary.

Denver, Nov. 8.—Game Commissioner Swan today submitted to the governor his report on the encounter between Game Warden Wilcox and his posse and a camp of Utah Indians in Routt county Oct. 24. While Mr. Swan deprecates the taking of human life, he believes that it was necessitated by the exigencies of the situation.

They Are Recovering.

New Haven, Conn., Nov. 8.—The Chicago Athletic club football eleven left today for New York. The men are recovering from their game of Saturday against Yale, except Paulman, center, whose arm was broken. He has gone home.

Lovejoy Monument Dedicated.

Alton, Ill., Nov. 8.—The Lovejoy monument in this city was formally dedicated today. It was 60 years ago yesterday that Lovejoy was assassinated in this city because of his outspoken and fiery editorials against the slave trade. The shaft is 50 feet high and was erected by the citizens of Alton and the people of Illinois at a cost of $2000.

GEORGE'S ENGAGING MANNER.
Why the Single Taxer Became a Favorite With Newspaper Men.

From the New York Sun.
"It was an interesting commentary on Henry George's character that in his previous campaign nearly every reporter who was assigned to cover his headquarters voted for him on election day, not because they all believed in his principles, but because of a liking for the man," said one of them yesterday. "Mr. George was almost unknown to me until he came to New York. He is a man of great earnestness and sincerity and his attitude toward those who were brought in contact with him made us all his friends. Mr. George is a man of great earnestness and sincerity and his attitude toward those who were brought in contact with him made us all his friends. Mr. George is a man of great earnestness and sincerity and his attitude toward those who were brought in contact with him made us all his friends."

"I will see him," said Mr. George. "The man came in and his manner was aggressive. Mr. George had apparently never met him before, and he was doubtful of the man's identity. 'Are you Mr. Blank?' he asked. 'I am.' 'Then, sir, I have nothing to say to you.'"

"Mr. Blank left the room in anger, and Mr. George characterized his attempt to interview him as impudence. He explained that this man had been his supporter when he was nominated and turned around and assaulted him more viciously than any of his other opponents."

"Under the circumstances," said Mr. George, "I felt that it was an insult that he should attempt to interview me. 'That was the only time I ever saw Henry George show personal resentment toward a man who had written against him, and in the opinion of every newspaper man who knew the circumstances he was justified.'"

"My first interview with Mr. George," said another reporter, "was interesting to me, and I have since heard that it was a characteristic of the man. I knew in a general way his theories on the single tax question, but I had never read his book. About six years ago when Mr. George was living in New York, I was sent to interview him on a subject in no way connected with his political views. He was a pleasant man, and his study was a plain room, so bare of hangings and furnishings as to excite comment. His desk was a table in the center of the room, and was covered with books, papers, and a typewriter and several chairs composed the room's furnishings. Mr. George's appearance disappointed me. I had pictured him as a larger man than he was. I briefly explained the reason for my visit. Mr. George hesitated a moment, and then after two or three questions, to make sure that I had no ulterior motive in my questions, said:

"I am willing to be interviewed on that subject, and I know the questions you would ask. I don't suppose you would object to my typewriting the interview. It will prevent any mistakes, and I can do it rapidly."

"Of course I didn't object. I smoked one of Mr. George's cigars, which he gave me, and I found it a pleasant way to obtain an interview. When Mr. George had typewritten his statement and corrected it, he asked me if I had ever read his 'Progress and Poverty.' I told him that I had not, but that I knew in a general way the line of argument that he had worked out."

"That won't do," he said. 'You must read my book if you are going to discuss it. Will you read it if I give you a copy?'"

"I assured him that I not only would read it, but I should write the copy with his autograph. I have it yet. Mr. George had great faith in the proselytizing influence of that book, and I know that he gave away hundreds of copies. After he became expert on the typewriter he very frequently wrote out his own interviews, a proceeding that pleased him as well as the interviewer."

LOWERED BY BLOCK AND TACKLE.

Queer Way of Moving a Coffin Containing the Remains of a Woman.

From the San Francisco Chronicle.
The vicinity of Third and I streets in Sacramento was both amused and shocked recently by the sight of a coffin being lowered by means of block and tackle from a second story window. Within the coffin, as subsequently appeared, was the body of a woman who weighed too much for the utility to carry down the stairs. The stairway down which the coffin would have had to pass was very narrow and two people in front and two in the rear would have found it difficult to walk down together. Consequently there was a consultation among the friends and relatives of the deceased as to how to remove the body. This resulted in the use of the block and tackle. With these fastened securely above the window the coffin was triumphantly lowered to the sidewalk and swung into the hearse.

TRUE SYMPATHY.

Little Girl's Comforting Words to Her Injured Grandmother.

She was a little Auburn-haired darling, the idol of grandma, and she was fully aware that, in the eyes of her grandmother, she was the dearest thing on earth. Not long ago grandma met with a painful accident and after long and weary weeks of suffering, was told that her hand, which had been injured, would probably never be right again. Of course she was feeling very badly, and perhaps for the first time in her short life, Auburn looked down in the eyes of her loved one. She snuggled up to the anghany woman, laid her soft cheek upon her knee as she sat on the little stool, and for a long time seemed trying to think of some comforting thing to say. At last she spoke: "Grandma, you know if I had been your neck that was broken, you could never have kissed me any more."
